

Upgrades & Temporary Relocation at Maxine Hall Health Center

Starting in Spring 2019

What's happening?

- Maxine Hall Health Center will temporarily relocate to Golden Gate and Steiner Street Mini Park, which is 4 blocks from the current location, for a capital improvement project. See map on back for details.
- The project will upgrade the building to make it seismically safer in case of an earthquake.
- The clinic will expand by moving to the 2nd floor, which will allow for larger exam rooms for families.
- To improve the clinic: an elevator will be added, the existing ADA ramp will be modified, curb ramps will be added for patient drop-off, and fire safety will be upgraded.

What's the construction plan?

- Bidding of the project is expected in October 2018.
- Construction is expected to start in spring 2019. All dates are subject to change.
- Any trees removed at the park will be replaced after the project. The SF Department of Public Health will work with SF Recreation and Park and the neighborhood to determine the best restoration plan. The trees will be replaced with those of similar size and type.

I'm a patient at Westside Community Services. Will Westside be relocating too?

- Westside Community Services, located in the Maxine Hall Health Center building, will not relocate during construction. Patients can receive services at the current location, 1301 Pierce St.
- The program will serve patients in the building and in manufactured trailers that will be temporarily parked in front of the building on Pierce Street. Please contact Westside Community Services if you are a patient and have additional questions at 415-431-9000.

What health services will be provided at Golden Gate and Steiner Mini Park?

- The site will be used as a primary care clinic for Maxine Hall Health Center, which is in the San Francisco Health Network and the San Francisco Department of Public Health.
- The clinic's existing primary care services will be available at the temporary location.

Why does Maxine Hall need to relocate during construction?

- The clinic needs to relocate because of construction disturbances, such as noise, vibrations and space restraints. The significant construction activity will interfere with patient care and could result in disturbances for patients, which would further prevent our staff from providing the best care.

Why will Westside Community Services be staying at its current location?

- Westside is a federally-regulated program that requires federal approval to be relocated. The process for federal approval is lengthy and would extend the project time for the Maxine Hall renovation and upgrade.
- The Department of Public Health is coordinating plans with Westside to continue to provide services at the current location, 1301 Pierce St. Plans are to provide the services in the building and in a temporary manufactured trailer in front of the building on Pierce Street.
